Dear Valued Patient,

We do hope that you are taking all the necessary precautions against the COVID-19 virus while still caring for your physical and mental health. In a recent article in the New England Journal of Medicine we learnt that “Aerosols and droplets generated during speech have been implicated in the person-to-person transmission of viruses”. Therefore, we urge every one of you to continue wearing masks and keep up the handwashing and sanitizing. Do not forget to moisturize after to protect your hands.
